Rules of Order.

Cushing's Manual will be the Parliamentary Authority.
For the "previous question" twenty ayes will be necessary.
For ordering ayes and noes, one-third of all delegates present will be needed.

In order to facilitate voting, delegates are requested to occupy the space assigned them.

The Rules require that the following shall be annually published with the programme:

"No report or other paper shall be entitled to publication in the volume for the year in which it shall be presented to the Association, unless it be placed in the hands of the Committee on Publication on or before the first day of July. It must also be so prepared as to require no material alteration or addition at the hands of its author.

"Every paper or address received by the Association, or by a Section, and ordered to be published, and all reports of Committees, and all plates or other means of illustration, shall be considered the exclusive property of the Association, and shall be published and sold for the exclusive benefit of the Association."

In view of the very great number of papers to be read, and at the request of officers of several of the Sections, the following rules are recommended:

Reading of papers limited to twenty minutes each. Discussion limited to five minutes for each speaker. All who take part in the discussions are earnestly requested to write out the substance of their remarks for publication, or see that it is properly done by a reporter, before leaving the room.
